Does your homeowners insurance allow Akitas?

Note regarding homeowners insurance: Many insurance companies maintain lists of excluded breeds of dogs. These lists typically include Akitas, along with many others. This means that if you have one of these breeds, an insurance company may: 1. Refuse to write an insurance policy at all. 2. If you currently have a policy, and they learn that you have one of these breeds, they may revoke your insurance. 3. If there is a personal liability claim relating to your dog, such as an instance where someone is bitten by your dog, they may refuse the claim, in which case the liability would fall upon you. If damages were awarded by a court of law, this could represent a significant financial burden. It is your responsibility to determine whether or not your insurance provider has such a provision in your policy or not, and whether your personal liability is adequate to cover you in the event of a claim, and we urge you to review your policy with your agent to make these determinations.

I understand that any dog given into my care as a foster animal remains the property of Heart of Dixie Akita Rescue, Inc., and will be surrendered upon demand. Further, I understand that I will be responsible for routine costs associated with feeding, veterinary care and other expenses related to the upkeep of the dog. While Heart of Dixie Akita Rescue will make every effort to reimburse expenses such as spaying, neutering or extraordinary medical costs, and try to assist with other costs, there is no guarantee that funds will be available for such purposes at any given time.
